As cloud usage continues to grow, so does the need for better security. To make sure your cloud infrastructure isn't at risk, check out our article on Cloud Security Posture Management (CSPM). We're also taking a moment to highlight the healthcare industry—because although this past year has brought unprecedented changes to all industries, we've seen how agile and resilient healthcare organizations can truly be. And it wouldn't be a newsletter without articles on data, data, and more data. Please check them out below.

Digital transformation in the healthcare industry

The healthcare industry's digital transformation is evolving at a blistering pace, with remarkable resiliency and adaptability. But how can organizations be sure they're working with the right technology/technology partner to build the foundation needed to elevate healthcare and patient experiences during this fast-paced transition. These are our thoughts.
